1	One or two labs had lots of material, while quite of few of the other ones seemed more like recaps	11/30/2016 5:04 PM
2	I was in the slower group	11/30/2016 5:04 PM
3	The pace was good but the labs were a bit short	11/30/2016 5:02 PM

6	but the content is obviously too much for 1 hour	11/30/2016 3:00 PM

1	Generally found the labs a little difficult., think I should probably have spent more time preparing to be honest. Maybe drank more coffee.	11/30/2016 5:06 PM
2	This should be optional, but if it's an option people choose then make it count for something. We're all so busy and spending hours on something that doesn't count or feel relevant to our degree is just never going to be a reality.	11/30/2016 5:04 PM
3	Why the hell isn't Q Step a full module? It consistently baffles all the students I know. Since it ultimately contributes nothing to the final mark we receive, it is difficult to focus efforts on this at this stage, since we're also expected to pursue two other modules at the same time.	11/30/2016 5:04 PM
4	Really struggled to actually complete the tasks in labs when also attempting to learn from the slides.	11/30/2016 5:02 PM
5	I found it very interesting, but was unable to spend as much time as I would have liked working on it due to other (tutorial) work	11/30/2016 4:03 PM
6	- extending the lab over 2 terms would be nice (and writing the essay after the 2nd one!)	11/30/2016 4:02 PM
7	The lab instructor was great (Jeff Wright) and really enjoyed his style of teaching but as a HisPol student with no maths A Level I was always struggling to understand the maths side of this course. It felt very swayed towards the PPE students.	11/30/2016 4:02 PM
8	It's hard to manage the work for the Q-step lab on top of ordinary tutorial work.	11/30/2016 3:02 PM
